

W

References

At Colleges, Women Are Leaving Men In the Dust. New York Times, July 9, 2006. p18-19.

Bottom lines rise with more women at the top. (2004). Lincoln Journal Star, February 1, 2004. Section H.

Caliper Corporation. (2005). The qualities that distinguish women leaders. Princeton, NJ: Alexandria, VA: Society for Human Resource Management.

Ekrut, S. & Winds of Change Foundation. (2001). Inside women's power: Learning from leaders. (CRW Special Report No. 28) . Wellesley, MA: Wellesley Center for Women, Wellesley College.

Heffernan, M. (2006). How she does it: How women are changing the rules of business success. New York, NY: Viking Press.

Hewlett, S, & Luce, C. (2005). Off ramps and on ramps: Keeping talented women on the road to success. Harvard Business Review (March 2005).

The Importance of Sex - Forget China, India and the internet: Economic growth is driven by women. (2006). Economist.com report derived from the April 12, 2006 print edition.

McGinn, D. (2006). Getting Back on Track. Newsweek, Vol. CXLVIII (13), pp. 62-66.

O'Brien, T. (2006). Up the down staircase: Why do so few women reach the top of big law firms? The New York Times, March 19, 2006, pp. B1,B4.

Pennington, B. (2006). At colleges, women are leaving men in the academic dust. New York Times, July 9, 2006, pp 1, 18-19.

Rand Corporation. (2004). The future at work - trends and implications. (2004) Research Brief at www.rand.org.

United State General Accounting Office. (2001). Women in management. Washington DC; U.S. Government Printing Office.

United States Department of Labor Women's Bureau. (2007). Employment status of women and men in 2005. www.dol.gov/wb, February 28, 2007.

United States General Accounting Office. (2002). A new look through the glass ceiling: Where are the women? Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office.

The Women's Fund of Greater Omaha. (1996). Women and leadership: A status report. Omaha, NE: The Women's Fund of Greater Omaha.

Young, Educated Women Key to U.S. Economic Growth - Increasingly Cities Need Talented Young Women to Succeed in Knowledge Economy. CEOs for Cities press release Chicago; Dec. 8, 2005.